Shooting for perfection

Wunderle has set and broken 33 national archery records and 13 world archery records, yet she still manages to keep up with her studies. Despite traveling for competitions and allotting practice time she puts her grades and duties as an Andrews Hall resident assistant on top priority.

Resident assistant ranked at top of sport, studies

By Nicole Meinheit
Features editor

She is a self-proclaimed perfectionist, and that alone may have gotten her where she is today.

But with the support of her family, a lot of hard work and a model code of modesty, Sally Wunderle has set and broken 33 national archery records and 13 world archery records.

This year, the United States Olympic Committee ranked Wunderle third for the honor of Athlete of the Month, a ranking that placed her right behind figure skater Michelle Kwan.

The ranking came in the midst of a phenomenal year for Wunderle. She won her division at the Championship of America held in Havana, Cuba, the national championships and the U.S. Open, a world ranking archery event.

Monday profile

Wunderle was also asked to complete a piece of artwork by Manfred Scharpf at the New York athletic club. Scharpf created several pieces of artwork using dirt, leaves and other natural materials, some from the Olympic Stadium in Athens. Each piece represented a different sport.

The piece Wunderle completed was a work representing the Greek goddess Diana shooting an arrow through the sun. Wunderle was asked to shoot an arrow through the sun made of real gold.

Wunderle was able to make the shot, not only once, but three times.

The artwork is still available for sale at $200,000.

She has also appeared twice on the Maury Povich Show.

On her second appearance this fall, Wunderle shot through the middle of a Lifesaver candy, the middle of an Oreo cookie and through an egg with Povich's watch wrapped around it.

Despite all of her accomplishments, aside from her teachers and professors, very few people at Eastern know about Wunderle's success.

Her schedule is part of the reason.

Wunderle is a resident advisor in Andrews Hall, so she likes to spend as much time on her floor as possible. And her academics come first, so it may be midnight or 5 a.m. when Wunderle gets out to Year Round Archery on Lerna Road where owner Marvin Waymach allows her to shoot.

Police target permit fraud

Seven cases discovered at Eastern within a week

By Laura Irvine
Campus editor

The University Police department reported seven cases of students fraudulently obtaining on-campus parking permits last week.

"We've had upperclassmen coming in and buying permits for underclassmen to use," said Officer Art Mitchell.

Mitchell said individuals have come into the police department claiming they have lost their permits. They then purchase a replacement permit for $5 and sell the permit they claimed lost to someone else.

"If the lost or stolen permit receives a parking citation, the handheld computer will notify the operator that the permit has been lost or stolen," a press release said.

The fine for falsification of vehicle registration is $100 for each party and referral to Judicial Affairs and/or officials, a press release said.

"If it can be proved someone stole a permit they will be charged criminally," Mitchell said.

Any individual found in possession and/or displaying an altered or reported lost or stolen parking permit shall be subject to a criminal charge and/or a $200 fine and loss of parking privileges for one year, a press release said.

Mitchell said when individuals come in to purchase a permit, clerks check their listed license plate for owner identification. If the individual is not a relative of the registered owner of the vehicle, a fine will be given.

"We want everyone to know that if people are doing this they will be caught," he said.

Newman Center, SIU to take a trip to see the pope

15 students from Eastern to attend

By Amy Thon
Staff editor

Fifteen students Tuesday will travel to St. Louis to join more than 20,000 youth in the "Light of the World Youth Gathering" celebrating Pope John Paul II's 20th, and possibly last visit to the United States.

The group will leave Charleston at 7 a.m. and travel to St. Louis to participate in the "Walk in the Light" beginning at 9 a.m. The rest of the day's events take place in St. Louis's Kiel Center which include a choir concert, opening prayer service, a performance by a Christian alternative-pop singer and inspirational speaker. The youth will watch the pope's arrival on a Jumbotron at the airport. On a Jumbotron they will also watch his arrival at the Papal Plaza and see him ride in an open car through the "play field" area of the Kiel Center.

The pope will speak at the evening prayer center and give a blessing. Roy Lanham, coordinator of the trip, said originally the Newman Catholic Center did not have any tickets for the event.

Prosecutors plan Lewinsky interview

WASHINGTON (AP) – House prosecutors brushed off Democratic fury and arranged to interview Monica Lewinsky informally Sunday – a sudden turn in President Clinton’s impeachment trial that triggered new partisan convulsions and led to a barrage of efforts to end the case.

“We would be derelict in our duty ... if we didn’t talk to her,” said Rep. William McCollum, R-Fla., one of the 13 House managers presenting the case for Clinton’s removal from office to the Senate. “We’ve never even met her.”

The House managers said they wanted to ask substantive questions of Ms. Lewinsky about her relationship with Clinton. McCollum said he wanted to question her about “her current state of mind on the grand jury testimony that she gave.” In that testimony, the former intern said Clinton never asked her to lie about their affair.

Three Republican senators expressed skepticism about calling any witnesses, an issue that is likely to be put to the Senate this week.

“I do not want the Senate to become a spectacle, a scene,” said Sen. Richard Shelby of Alabama, adding he would support only witnesses who “can add a lot.” Sens. Slade Gorton of Washington and Olympia Snowe of Maine expressed similar misgivings. Snowe commented she does not want the trial “to turn into the Jerry Springer show.”

At the Mayflower Hotel where Ms. Lewinsky was housed, concierge John Dignan said the former White House intern has received about a dozen messages by phone and fax – some with off-color comments but most offering support.

“She really doesn’t want to see these things, so we’ve been throwing them away,” he said, specifying that the hotel checked with Ms. Lewinsky before discarding the messages.

In a move that shattered the Senate’s bipartisan approach to the impeachment trial and caught senators from both parties off guard, Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr’s office obtained a court order to help the House schedule the interview.

Starr’s staff told a judge Friday she was obligated to cooperate under an agreement giving her limited immunity from prosecution.

But Charles Bakaly, Starr’s spokesman, said, “This is not our interview. The substance of the questions are not ours.”

For the second consecutive Sunday, many of the key players had a say: 21 senators appeared on the Sunday talk shows, as did five of the 13 House prosecutors.

Lead House manager Henry Hyde, R-Ill., said the interview, an often-used tactic in court trials to size up witnesses, was to learn “the kind of witness she would make.”

But in the now-rancorous atmosphere, the surprise move by House Republicans gave Senate Democrats a new opening to denounce the perjury and obstruction of justice case presented by the prosecution team.

The managers “are swinging wildly for the fence for a home run” to save a case “in serious trouble,” Sen. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J., said. On Saturday, Senate Democratic Leader Tom Daschle called the Republican tactic “raw partisanship.”

The Lewinsky interview was injected into the trial just as the Senate faced crucial decisions this week and just as a bipartisan agreement governing the first phase of the trial was about to run its course.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the chamber’s respected expert on history and traditions, said he will move to dismiss the case. If that fails, senators would decide whether to call witnesses, initially for depositions. Most Republicans support testimony; most Democrats do not.

Clinton, touring tornado damage in his home state of Arkansas, was asked about the Senate votes and responded: “I’m not sure what they’re going to do. I’m not going to talk about it.”

As a member of the national archery team, tournaments and other commitments take Wunderle across the country and around the globe.

“Eastern faculty has been great,” Wunderle said. “Teachers and professors have supported me 100 percent and been interested in the work I’ve done.”

Yet Wunderle has to be picky about the tournaments she participates in because she doesn’t want to be away from her floor too long or miss too many classes.

“I’ve been able to get both an education and do my archery and I might not have been able to do that at another school,” she said.

Her position as a R.A. also limits the tournaments she can participate in because an R.A. can only be away from the building for nine days.

This semester, Wunderle is scheduled to spend a week at the Olympic training center in California, but she is not sure if she will be able to go because the scheduled week comes on the heels of two tournaments she is supposed to compete in for the national team.

Wunderle isn’t setting these records alone; both in Cuba and at the national competition she won her division and her brother Vic won his division. Both are coached by their father Terry.

Her brother is on the archery team at Texas A & M, which has the number one ranked archery team in the United States and is training for the Olympic team at the 2000 Olympic games Sydney, Australia.

Wunderle and her family attended the last Olympic games in Atlanta, Ga., where her brother was an alternate on the Olympic team.

Wunderle’s brother isn’t the only Wunderle with Olympic dreams. In the future, Wunderle’s category will be an honorary event at the Olympics and then an event and she hopes to compete then.

She estimates it will be an Olympic event by 2008.

In the meantime, Wunderle is working on a degree in speech communications at Eastern but archery is never far from her thoughts.

Over the summer Wunderle worked at a Boy Scout camp.

“The boys taught me so much,” Wunderle said. “I think that’s why I did so well this year.”

Even with all her championships under her belt it is still the little things that impress Wunderle the most.

“I take it for granted (that most people have not seen archery),” Wunderle said. “I’ve shot at Lifesavers and Aspirin since I was little.”

Don’t expect Wunderle to stop shooting at Lifesavers or Aspirin anytime soon, but don’t expect her to stop shooting for perfection either.

But Lanham called to request tickets and received 30 in the mail, which he split with the Newman Catholic Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

This is the second time

Lanham has taken students to see the pope because he said it is an important opportunity.

“We took 50 college students to Denver (in 1993) for World Youth Day,” Lanham said. “It’s a wonderful opportunity.”

He said he considers the pope to be one of the top five spiritual leaders in the world today.

“I would consider Pope John Paul II the spiritual leader in the world because of his tremendous outreach,” Lanham said. “It’s a wonderful opportunity for students to come together with thousands of other people all day.”

He said it is good for students to experience the power of 20,000 youths gathered together.

“It doesn’t come along every day,” Lanham said. “He’s a prophet of our day, he interprets the signs of the time well.”

Correction

An article on Jan. 22 should have stated Teshome Abebe, vice president for academic affairs, said Eastern’s faculty and staff recognize a curriculum that only teaches about western civilization does not prepare the student leaders of the 21st century.

The News regrets the error.

Room and board rates skyrocketing

The annual rise of housing rates is a pattern throughout all public Illinois universities

By Joe Sanner
Senior reporter

Not only have residence hall costs at Eastern and other public Illinois universities almost doubled since 1990 and almost tripled since the late 70s, but the rate at which they are increasing is becoming noticeably higher.

Room and board rates at Eastern have increased at a steady rate every year since the 1992-1993 academic year. The average percentage of increase in room and board costs over the last 20 years has been 5.55 percent.

Increasing room and board rates at public universities is nothing new or unusual, but residence hall costs have gone up almost $1,200 since the start of the decade.

From the 1977-1978 academic year to the 1991-1992 academic year, rates increased at a static, unpredictable rate each year. Since then, rates began to increase at a slowly, but steadily increasing rate.

“Back in the good old days, you could go three years without an increase,” said Bill Schnackel, director of housing and dining services. “The last 20 years, it has been an annual thing.”

Schnackel said the four things that contribute the most to increases in housing costs each year are utilities, salaries and wages, repairs and renovations, and food.

“We’ve expanded the menu and gone to longer hours,” he said. “We’ve also been buying higher quality (materials).”

“Even with the recent minimum wage increase, we’ve tried to maintain the same hours for students.”

The per-year housing costs and increases for each year are:

- $1,240 for the 1977-1978 academic year,
- $1,312 for the 1978-1979 year; a $72, a 5.81 percent increase,

- $1,407 for the 1979-1980 year; a $95, 7.24 percent increase,
- $1,575 for the 1980-1981 year; a $168, 11.94 percent increase,
- $1,771.50 for the 1981-1982 year; a $196, 12.5 percent increase,
- $1,930 for the 1982-1983 year; a $158, 8.98 percent increase,
- $1,986 for the 1983-1984 year; a $56, 2.9 percent increase,
- $2,060 for the 1984-1985 year; a $74, 3.73 percent increase,
- $2,148 for the 1985-1986 year; an $88, 4.27 percent increase,
- $2,212 for the 1986-1987 year; a $64, 2.98 percent increase,
- $2,300 for the 1987-1988 year; an $88, 3.98 percent increase,
- $2,388 for the 1988-1989 year; an $88, 3.82 percent increase,
- $2,476 for the 1989-1990 year; an $88, 3.69 percent increase,
- $2,574 for the 1990-1991 year; a $98, 3.95 percent increase,
- $2,694 for the 1991-1992 year; a $120, 4.68 percent increase,

After the 1991-1992 year, the costs for room and board begin to increase at a higher rate.

At the beginning of the 1992-1993 academic year, a room with an 11-meal dining service option cost $2,754, a $60, 2.23 percent increase from the previous year. A room with a 14-meal option cost $2,796, a $102, 3.8 percent increase. The 18-meal option ran costs up to $2,856, a $162, 6 percent increase.

A room and an 11-meal option during the 1993-1994 year cost $2,838, an $84, 3.05 percent increase. A 14-meal option cost $2,884, increasing $88 and 3.14 percent from the previous year. An 18-meal option cost $2,948, increasing $92 and 3.22 percent.

Room and board rates for the 1994-1995 year increased 4 percent. The cost for a room with an 11-meal option increased $114 to $2,952. A room with a 14-meal plan increased $116 to $3,000 and a room with an 18-meal plan increased $118 to $3,060.

Room and board rates for the 1995-1996 year increased 5.8 percent. The charge for a room with an 11-meal option rose $172 to $3,124 and a room with a 14-meal plan went up $174 to $3,174. A room with an 18-meal plan increased $178 to $3,244.

During the 1996-1997 year, room and board rates increased 5.9 percent. A room with an 11-meal plan increased $184 to $3,308 and a room with a 14-meal plan increased $188 to $3,362. A room with an 18-meal plan went up $190 to $3,434.

A room with an 11-meal plan during the 1997-1998 school year cost $3,524, a $216, 6.52 percent increase from the previous year. A room with a 14-meal plan cost $3,622, a $260, 7.73 percent increase. With the 18-meal plan, a room cost $3,732, a $298, 8.68 percent increase.

This year, a room with an 11-meal plan costs $3,672, a $148, 4.2 percent increase. A room with a 14-meal plan costs $3,802, a $180, 5 percent increase. With the 18-meal option, a room costs $3,932, a $200, 5.4 percent increase.

Schnackel estimated housing costs would increase another 3 to 5 percent next fall.

Between the 1996-1997 and 1997-1998 year was the largest increase in housing costs at Eastern. Schnackel said that increase and upcoming increases will be used to pay for ongoing projects to improve facilities.

Schnackel estimated improvements to Lincoln and Douglas residence halls will cost about $2.5 million and adding air conditioning to the Triad will cost between $2 and $3 million. He said a project to rewire residence halls will cost somewhere between $7.5 and $9.5 million.

“The way we figure increases is we anticipate what percentage of freshmen will be here next year and how many people will stay on campus,” Schnackel said. “Our goal is to stay as one of the most affordable institutions (in Illinois).”

A room at Illinois State University, of Bloomington-Normal this year costs $4,116 with the most popular meal plan. That’s a $120 increase from last year’s $3,996.

Mindy Mangialardi, associate director of the office of residential life at ISU, said the reason living costs increase each year is to accommodate student demands.

“It’s used for the things students want,” Mangialardi said. “In recent years, they’ve wanted HBO and things like that. Those will represent probably the biggest chunk of an increase.

“Some costs are going to go up in spite of us,” she said. “If we anticipate utilities are going to go up, then we anticipate we’re going to need a couple more dollars from the students.”

At the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana this year, the average residence hall cost is $4,978.

At Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, the average room and board costs $3,760. At SIU in Edwardsville, room and board costs $4,342.

Average room and board costs at Western Illinois University in Macomb are $4,288 and room and board at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb costs $4,310.

Labs get a face lift

Eastern's computer labs are about to get a 159 computer upgrade, which will make lab access more convenient to the ever-increasing student body. This increase will create a total of 700 computers.

About $625,175 has been set aside by The Academic Technology Advisory Committee from Student Technology Fee Funds to pay for the massive update. The upgrades will include 159 microcomputer purchases and printers, or peripheral equipment.

The purchase of these computers by Student Technology Funds makes a total of 500 computers purchased in the past four years. This is a considerable accomplishment for Eastern in the field of technology.

Technology

Eastern is updating and increasing the computer technology available to students on campus which will benefit students.

therefore, keeping up with the most recent software and technology.

The computers are not scheduled to be installed until March, but final decisions concerning fund allocation will be made in February.

Currently, the foreign language department, Lumpkin Hall and the math department have received new equipment. Student Services has partially finished upgrading and computers in the English department should be installed during intercession.

Eastern has taken a positive step in trying to remain up to par with technology and equipment on campus. Education with technology is only applicable when students are able to learn on current equipment.

Computer availability has been important to the student body. Students and the campus community have been asking for more computers, later hours in labs and updated resources. Students requested a 24-hour computer lab be installed and the university is working on transforming the Gregg Triad as a result of the request.

Technology is a tool that will place our future graduates among the finest in the job competitive world and make Eastern's reputation will soar as well.

St. Louis transformed for pope's visit

For about 30 hours this week, the city of St. Louis and the Mid-West area will be transformed as residents stop their daily activities and take some time to come together for a common purpose.

That is, to welcome Pope John Paul II to their city. Coming from Mexico, the pope will arrive in St. Louis at 1 p.m. Tuesday, greeted by President Clinton and other government officials. The streets will be filled with people from all over the Mid-West gathered to see the pope en route to his various events including a speech at the youth rally, a mass at the cathedral and tours of the city. More than 100,000 people are expected to attend the events during the pope's visit.

From Eastern, a group of 15 students from the Newman Catholic Center will take the two-hour trip from Charleston to St. Louis in hopes of seeing the pope up close. They will leave at 7 a.m. to take part in the day-long "Light of the World Youth Gathering." The gathering will include a "Walk in the Light" march of unity, inspirational speakers and a performance by a Christian alternative-pop singer.

The day will end with a evening prayer service during which the pope will speak at and students will renew their baptismal vows.

In a time when our country is going through the impeachment crisis and the government does not seem as stable to the public, Catholics and non-Catholics alike are looking for a source of leadership. The pope's visit seems to be just in time.

For the two decades that he has served as pope, Pope John Paul II has made 85 foreign trips to speak to people of all faiths. He is a world leader because of the outreach

Amy Thon
Editorial Page editor

“(The pope) seems to relate to any group he speaks to, especially the youth.”

The visit is also being viewed as historical because it may be Pope John Paul II's last trip to the United States. The city of St. Louis has been preparing for weeks for the pope's visit to their city. Streets, schools and government offices will all be closed on the days of his visit.

Originally from Poland, John Paul is the first non-Italian pope in 445 years. He was an author, actor and playwright before he began studying for the priesthood.

Some people will go about their daily activities without noticing anything different Tuesday and Wednesday. But for many, the pope's visit will be a life-changing experience.

Roy Lanham, who is coordinating the trip for the Newman Center, said: "I see that opportunity as episodic - life changing." Although this is the second time he has taken a group of students to see the pope, he said the experience will still be exciting.

Much can be learned from a man who has devoted his life to uniting the world in a common goal. Catholics and non-Catholic's alike will benefit from his visit and remember it for years to come. The day will be important for the city of St. Louis and the Mid-West.

Clothes, organizations nothing to do with falls

As I, a former Alpha Gamma Delta pledge, sat in my room on Wednesday night preparing for the usual, Dawson's and Party of Five, my Sigma Kappa friends commented on whether or not I had read the day's letter to the editor in the paper. My two other G.D.I. friends and I gathered and listened as she read word for word a satire that I found in no way amusing. I found it very offensive that someone was ridiculed and judged because they had a difficult time with the arctic ice here on campus.

What do I find funny? Yeah, I thought it was hilarious when I walked out the door and fell, then slid downhill at six in the morning. It was even funnier when I told my closest friends about the episode. Oh, and I guess my clothing had something to do with that spill (because I was a pledge and all). No, actually I had on jeans and tennis shoes.

Oh, maybe I was late to class, so I was rushing. No, actually I had plenty of time. Does it really matter what I was wearing or what I was doing when I fell? Of course not, the point is that the campus was completely covered with ice. It was not because of any type of clothing or organization that I may be involved in that I fell.

No one on this campus has the right to assume what anyone is thinking, doing, or what their intention is as they walk through campus. On the same note, no one has the right to target a specific group by stereotyping their clothing and concluding that that is the sole reason for the nasty spills. I you are in fact in a fraternity or a sorority that does not make you more likely to act stupid or fall on the ice. As a speech communications minor, I know that it is important to take into consideration everyone's feelings and opinions before boldly stating my own. Obviously, all avenues were not explored as the ice on campus provides entertainment road was traveled. I am going to put on my platforms, my black pants and my lovely peacoat and walk proudly throughout the campus without falling.

Seminar offers interview skills

Associate director of Career services explains interview etiquette

By Jessica Sedgwick
Staff editor

Proper interview etiquette, how to answer questions and how to follow up a job interview are just a few of the subjects that will be discussed at this semester's Career Services workshop, "Interviewing: How to be dynamic and effective."

Students will learn how to prepare for interviews with Rosalyn Gresens, associate director of Career Services, from 4 to 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Charleston/Mattoon Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Besides learning specific details in answering questions, Gresens will discuss how to dress and act, what to do after an interview, how to write thank-you letters, how to market a specific persons' skills in a resume and the type of information employers expect from a job candidate.

"I think students will be surprised to see how much information employers require from them," Gresens said. "Interviewing is a very important procedure that (students) need to be prepared for."

Where to sit during a group interview and how it shows how ambitious and aggressive a person is will be included in the discussion.

The workshop will also include breaking into groups to practice asking and answering questions. Students will then critique and give each other feedback on their answers.

"I work with groups, go around and give them feedback," Gresens said. "They work with each other to balance ideas on how to answer questions."

Gresens said many students have never experienced an interview before.

"I think it's sketchy," Gresens said. "Most students have not had an interview."

Students at the workshop also learn about the different services offered at Career Services. Gresens said the students are always surprised to learn about the other services open to those who are starting their job hunt or want to be prepared to start a job search, such as mock interviews or personal appointments with advisors.

Career Services always conducts the work shop in the beginning of the spring semester so students have time to prepare for spring interviews and the Feb. 4 Job Fair, Gresens said. In the past, 15-25 students have attended this workshop which is offered once a semester.

"We try to do it right before the job fair, but it's not just for students going to the job fair. It's so (students) have time to get what they need to prepare," Gresens said.

Winter Homecoming to show spirit

Prizes include all expense paid trip to Flordia, Walt Disney World

Chris Sievers
Student government editor

Eastern's Winter Homecoming next week will give student organizations the opportunity to show their school spirit and give students a chance to win one of two grand prizes.

The winter homecoming festivities will be held from Feb.2 - 6.

The main grand prize will be rewarded following B-I-N-G-O, which will be held after the Feb. 6 basketball game.

Victoria Markley, student vice president for student affairs said there will be many prizes given away after B-I-N-G-O.

"There will be tons of prizes along with two grand prizes (given away)," she said.

Markley said the two grand prizes are two trips for two to Orlando, Fla., during spring break. The prize includes passes to Walt Disney World, a three-night stay at a resort, includes airfare and a one-day pass to MGM Studios.

Recognized Student Organizations will be awarded certificates to spirit winners of each division of the Winter Homecoming. Presentation of the awards will take place during the basketball game on Feb. 6.

Spirit points will be rewarded for activities such as EIU banner painting, organization banner, snowman contest, dizzy bats (preliminary), attending two basketball games, bleacher creature, dizzy bat (final) and B-I-N-G-O.

Banner paintings will be judged on color, basketball themes, originality and artistic ability.

A bleacher creature is a member of an organization who promotes Eastern spirit. Judging will take place during the first half of the men's basketball game on Feb. 4.

Each bleacher creature group will have to perform a skit on their selected sub-theme.

Homecoming competitions will be divided into two divisions, a Greek division and residence hall/Recognized Student Organization division.

One point will be awarded for sending a representative to each homecoming committee meeting, attending/participating in snowman building contest, attending two basketball games, participating in preliminary dizzy bats game, creating a banner, participating in round two of dizzy bats, attending participating in dizzy bats final, completing and returning spirit contract form, successful completion of the week's homecoming activities without incident, attending bingo and three points for participating in bleacher creatures.

Spirit will be judged in each division and points will be given for first, second and third place.

Spirit will be judged on enthusiasm, unity displayed amongst groups, promotion of Eastern, adherence to the team, attendance of group at events, cooperation amongst own group, other groups, judges and homecoming committee members and conduct.

Entry forms are due 9 p.m. Tuesday at the Winter Homecoming meeting in the Arcola/Tuscola Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

For questions contact Victoria Markley or Tracy Bentson at the Student Activities Center at 581-5117.

The address for the website is www.charlestonillinois.org.

One of the sites includes a city council page. A java script alert box notifies browsers of the next meeting and the council's agenda.

The fire and rescue page and Charleston Police Department page gives basic information and phone numbers.

The public works page lists the superintendents for each department and their phone numbers.

The recreation page has information on city parks and playgrounds, programs and activities, the Rotary Pool and Putt-n-Swing.

The special events page will list any city events of interest.

The zoning page lists zoning board members and gives information on actions taken at the most recent zoning board meeting and agenda items for the next meeting.

Also available on the Charleston website are links to take browsers to sites devoted to Eastern, Fox Ridge State Park, Lincoln Log Cabin State Historic Site and Walnut Point State Park.

Each page has a graphic with a picture corresponding to the featured group.

The Charleston web page was designed by Blue Willow Pages, run by Eastern faculty members Michael Kuo and Denise Clark.

18 RSOs meet with students

By Chris Sievers
Student government editor

Students who are interested in getting involved in a Recognized Student Organization can meet with a variety of organizations at the semi-annual RSO Fair.

The RSO fair will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Feb. 28 in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union Walkway and Bridge Lounge.

The RSO Fair is sponsored by Eastern's Student Government and is conducted by Victoria Markley, student vice president for student affairs.

Forty RSOs participated in the fair last semester, Markley said. Eighteen will participate this semester.

Markley said the number of groups signed up for the RSO fair is about what she anticipated.

"(This is) about what we expected," she said. "We were planning on about half of last semester. Recruitment is not as big as fall semester."

Every organization participating in the fair will have a table located in the walkway for them to decorate or display information about their organization, she said.

The organizations represented at this year's RSO fair include: Grad Student Advisory Council, Gamma Phi Pi business fraternity, Mortar Board, Earth Club, Society of Metaphysical Advancement, Math Energy, Society for Creative Anachronism, P.O.W.E.R. and Alpha Phi social sorority.

Along with Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority, Student Government, Circle K, Panhellenic Council, Chinese Association, Intervarsity Christian Fellowship, Newman Center, Badminton Club and Latin American Student Organization.

Markley said organizations can still sign up for the fair through tomorrow.

A master list of all RSOs on campus and their contacts will be available for interested students.

Any questions can be directed to Victoria Markley at 581-7673 or students can stop by the Student Activities Center located on the second floor of the Union.

Mortar Board looking for new members

By Laura Irvine
Campus editor

As rush week begins, an honors fraternity that participates in various charities will hold an informational meeting for those interested.

Mortar Board, Inc. will hold their meeting at 7 p.m. Feb. 1 in Room 232 of Coleman Hall for juniors interested in joining.

Matt Layette, a senior political science major and president of Eastern's chapter, said the meeting will be a good way to learn the specifics of the fraternity.

"The meeting will be a good way to learn what the organization is about and also to meet current members of Mortar Board," he said.

Layette also said a video will be shown at the meeting to show what kinds of things the fraternity participates in.

The requirements for being a member of the fraternity include being of junior standing and having a GPA of 3.2.

Layette said membership in the fraternity is based on letters of recommendation, service achievement and scholarship.

Mortar Board, which was founded in 1918, has 36 members in its Tassels Chapter. The Eastern chapter of the fraternity was established in 1992.

"(Mortar Board) is a national honor society for college seniors who exemplify achievement in leadership, scholarship and service," said Chris Maley, director of communications for the board.

So far this year, members of Mortar Board have conducted a small food drive for Thanksgiving, participated in campus clean up, sang Christmas carols at the Alpha House and sold flowers at graduation ceremonies, the press release said.

Maley said the fraternity will have a Mortar Board week some time in February in which members will participate in a number of service projects.

In the final minute of the game, with Eastern only down six, SEMO converted on 11-of-12 free throws to put the game out of reach.

Cotton was responsible for making 10 of those shots in the final minute, as free throws accounted for 10 of Cotton's 16 points.

Another thing that factored into the loss was Eastern was not playing 100 percent healthy, as both starting guard Jack Owens and reserve Merv Joseph were suffering from a case of the flu all the way up to game time.

The Panthers held the lead throughout the first half, but lost it at the 16:51 mark in the second half when Eley converted a layup to give the Indians a 42-41 lead.

After a Kyle Hill jumper at the 7:42 mark gave Eastern the lead

“We felt it. Then they came down and threw it to Bud who found the open man, and that kind of deflated us.”

John Smith,
Eastern center

back at 56-55, the Indians scored the next five points and powered by a three-pointer by Kahn Cotton, Southeast took a 60-56 lead with six minutes remaining.

After the Indians had extended the lead to nine points, Smith converted on a three-point play at the two-minute mark to cut the lead to two and it looked like the momentum was shifting.

But on the next possession, Eley, who is a projected second round NBA draft pick, found Brian Bunche and he nailed an open jumper.

“We felt it,” Smith said. “Then they came down and threw it to Bud who found the open man and that kind of deflated us again.”

Samuels was disappointed that his team was unable to continue the momentum after the Smith play.

“In those close games, we have to find those plays to get us over the hump,” he said.

Even with his illness, Owens was still able to score 13 points in the first half, and help the Panthers to a 39-33 lead. Owens accounted for four of Eastern's seven three's in the first half, but the Indians held him to two points in the second half.

SEMO put five players in double figures, led by Eley's double-double, as he complemented his 14 boards with 19 points.

Eastern finished its homestand 0-3, and now will start a road swing beginning Thursday night at Morehead State.

from $26,975 to $40,925.

Golf isn't the only sport lagging behind in scholarship dollars. Baseball, men's and women's tennis and men's cross country/track are also in need of more scholarship dollars to keep pace, and more importantly, compete with everyone else.

“When I went to the Student Senate (and asked for a fee increase), I indicated the sports at the bottom of the league and which schools gave how much aid in each sport,” McDuffie said. “If you're going to have a team, you ought to fund it properly.”

Once the plan is complete, McDuffie wants to have all sports, with the exception of the non-conference swimming and wrestling teams, to be receiving 100 percent of scholarship dollars allowable by the NCAA. Swimming and wrestling would get 60 percent of the maximum, which would still double what they currently get.

One of McDuffie's goals is for Eastern athletics to be successful on the national level, but he still realizes the importance of emphasizing the academic portion of the student's time here.

“The last thing I want to be known as is the athletic director just interested in getting athletes,” he said.

“Right now our realistic goal is to win conference championships and in some other sports, go beyond that.

“Our goal is over a period of time to be competitive so that if we win the league title (such as in softball), we're not matched up against some team like Stanford.

“We're competitive in many sports in the conference but not in the first round (of national tournaments),” McDuffie said.

Other parts of his four-year plan include a new full-time strength and conditioning coach and next season, the men's and women's soccer teams will be getting an entry level full-time assistant coach.

McDuffie's also working on improving travel conditions for the teams, allowing them to take charter buses on longer trips instead of what has been regarded as a dangerous alternative of a van.

Dangerous because it's the coaches that drive the vans – sometimes six or more hours each way with a game mixed in between, which could set everybody up for disaster.

“The last thing I want to do is talk to a mother after her child has been killed in a van,” McDuffie said. “That's where we talk about safety.”

In any case, it's a safe bet the plan will vastly improve Eastern athletics as a whole.

And when the students are concerned, an improvement really isn't one unless they're around to see the outcome.

Rebounding

Eley dominated the game under the boards by cementing himself in the lane, and not allowing anyone to get positioning on him.

Eastern's centers, Michael Shaver and Smith, combined for 11 of the Panthers' rebounds and Merv Joseph, playing with the flu, was a non-factor in his eight minutes of play, finishing with one turnover and a block.

The rebounding numbers were closer in the first half when Eastern shot 50 percent from the field, but the Panthers were still outrebounded 21-11, and 11 of SEMO's rebounds in the half were offensive.

“At the half, coach (Samuels) was unhappy about us being killed on the offensive boards,” Smith said.

Eastern sophomore guard Kyle

Hill attributed the loss back to the rebounding deficit in the first half.

“If we would have been on the boards in the first half, we would have had a bigger lead,” Hill said.

“They had 11 offensive rebounds to our 11 total rebounds.”

SEMO coach Gary Garner was impressed with his interior defense, especially in the second half.

“We battled and that really helped us in the second half,” Garner said. “I think the inside players played really well.”

With success, also comes key injuries

Nationally-ranked Revells may be gone for season, Derico's health also in question

Deanna McIntyre / Photo editor
An Eastern wrestler tries to take down a Purdue opponent last Thursday night. The Panthers performed well over the weekend, but key injuries may cost them as the season progresses.

By Bill Ruthhart
Staff writer

It was a weekend of satisfaction and frustration for the Panther wrestling team as they traveled to the University of Miami (OH).

Eastern endured both ends of the spectrum at Saturday's tournament as several outstanding individual performances were turned in while a couple of key wrestlers were lost because of injury.

"Overall, our luck just hasn't been good," head coach Ralph McCausland said.

This feeling of frustration comes after losing two key wrestlers due to injury.

Kelly Revells (133), fresh off his comeback from ineligibility, suffered a separated shoulder on Saturday and may be lost for the season.

"Things have gone from bad to worse for him," McCausland said. "It looks like a pretty serious injury."

Revells was to be evaluated and have x-rays taken, but McCausland fears for the worst.

"He may be done for the season," he said.

Revells, who was 3-1 on the day with a fourth place finish, injured the shoulder in the final 20 seconds of his last match.

Zach Derico (197) also suffered a costly injury on Saturday. Derico, who had been wrestling well of late, may be suffering from an injured rib, or a possible abdominal muscle strain. Derico was to be evaluated on Sunday to determine the seriousness of his injury.

"We can't afford to lose him,"

McCausland said. "We already have too many other guys out."

Derico sustained the injury in his first match of the day, which he won, and then came out victorious in his second match before the pain became too unbearable.

"He's a tough kid," McCausland said. "He really gutted it out for the second win."

Despite the injuries of their teammates, many Panther grapplers were able to turn in outstanding performances.

Senior Tom Combes (125) won his weight class, going 5-0 on the day.

Sophomore Rafael Mejia also wrestled in the 125-weight bracket and took fourth place, going 4-2 for the tournament.

Don Pool (141) also won his weight class after winning all five of his matches.

With Ryan Anderson still out due to sickness, Jason Lawrence (149) wrestled and took third place with a 6-1 record for the tournament.

Nick Macellaio (165) and Wayne Brown (174) both went 0-2 on the day, while Kyle Bracey (184) won one of his three matches.

"That's an area that's just killing us," McCausland said.

Although those three weight classes have hurt the Panthers this season, McCausland admits things have not worked out as he expected.

"As a coach, you set up a game plan at the beginning of the year," he said. "Ours included Tim Duggan at 174 and a junior college All-American at 184, but things just didn't work out that way."

Although Bracey

and Brown have struggled this season, McCausland feels the experience they are gaining now will be extremely valuable for both freshmen and the team in the future.

Heavyweight Mike Russow, who has been the Panther's hottest wrestler, was unable to make the trip to Ohio. Freshman B.J. Bertelsman and senior Graham Witt competed in his place.

Both went 2-2 on the day, and Witt defeated Bertelsman in a consolation match with a sudden death victory.

The Panther grapplers defeated opponents from Michigan, Michigan State, Indiana as well as Cleveland St. and Miami (OH).

"The competition was decent," McCausland said, "But it wasn't top-ranked."

McCausland attributes the better performances to an increase in intensity and coming off a difficult meet against Purdue.

"Purdue can obviously wrestle with anybody," McCausland said, "And the guys are forming a little more intensity."

With only a month left, McCausland knows his wrestlers need to make some improvements.

"There is only one month left and it's going to go by very, very quickly," he said.

"We need to continue to eliminate mistakes and with more conditioning and intensity, we'll be heading in the right direction."

Women’s swim team takes first, men second

After going down early, Lady Panthers regain lead in final two events

By Todd Schreiber
Staff writer

The Eastern swim team traveled to compete against four other teams at the Bradley Invitational this weekend. Although there were five teams there, the invite turned into a two-team meet on both the men’s and women’s side.

The Lady Panthers used a strong all-around performance to beat out Northern Iowa 757-736. The men’s team also swam extremely well finishing second to the Purple Panthers by a score of 661-597.5.

The women’s team swam better than the score indicated, winning 13-of-20 events. The upperclassmen led the way for the team, as seniors Andrea Peters and Jessica Stowell and junior Amber Aurit scored major points for the team.

Aurit won two individual events in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke events, and was also on two winning relay events.

Stowell won the 100-yard butterfly event and was also on two winning relay teams.

Peters won the 200-yard freestyle and teamed up with Amanda Dore, Karina Freer and Nancy Williams to win the 200-yard freestyle relay, the first event contested. The foursome then teamed up to win the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Freer won the 100-yard freestyle event, and was on the winning 200-yard medley relay team with Stowell, Aurit and Courtney Werbe. Freer also led the charge in the 50-yard freestyle where Eastern had five of the top eight finishers. Williams finished second, Dore third, Peters fifth and Werbe eighth.

Freshman Jessica Kaatz also contributed a victory in the 200-yard breaststroke. The team also won the 800-yard freestyle relay, as the team of Aurit, Brooke Untersee, Chrissy Przybylski and Nelli Farella edged out the other Lady Panther team in that event.

Coach Ray Padovan was worried early about his women’s team.

“We got in an early hole,” he said. “And we didn’t regain the lead until late, with one or two events left.”

The coach was more impressed with the performance of the men’s team, which battled hard to a second-place finish to Northern Iowa.

“We used to not be close with Northern Iowa,” Padovan said, “I was particularly happy with their performance.”

The men won seven events overall as junior Matt Bos and sophomore Luke Porritt both won an individual and relay event.

Bos won the 100-yard breaststroke event and was on the 200-yard medley relay event.

Porritt was also on the relay event with Joe DeLuca and Grant Ferkaluk.

Porrit won the 100-yard backstroke event, with Patrick Johnson finishing second and Kurt Johns finishing fifth.

DeLuca also won the 100-yard butterfly, with Porritt finishing second.

Sophomore Scott Burrus won the 3-meter diving event with a score of 142.15 and finished fourth in the 1-meter dive.

Nick Schmidt also had a good meet with a second-place finish in the 200-yard freestyle and a pair of third-place finishes in the 500 and 1650-yard freestyle events.

The team was tired after the meet, Padovan said, because of the amount of swimming in a short period of time.

“We were ready for the meet, but were pretty tired afterwards,” he said.

One downside to the meet was that Truman State did not bring their full squad. They had a tough weekend the week before, Padovan said, but he wanted to see them there.

“It would have been kind of nice to have them there in full force, even if we wouldn’t have finished as high,” Padovan said.

The team will next compete in a road meet against Western Kentucky on Saturday.

Samuels: It's the same old story

Another second-half breakdown results in OVC loss

By Matt Wilson
Staff writer

Panther basketball fans suffered from a case of déjà vu in the 81-70 loss to Southeast Missouri Saturday night in Lantz Gymnasium.

"It's the same old story; we got out-rebounded significantly and we wore down in the second half," Panther head coach Rick Samuels said.

Lead by William 'Bud' Eley's 14 rebounds, the Panthers were out-rebounded by 20 or more boards for the second straight game, this time by a margin of 43-23.

Eastern walked into the locker room at halftime with a 39-33 lead, but was outscored 48-31 in the second half and the Indians ran away with the win.

"I don't know what our problem is, we can't put a full game together," Panther junior center John Smith said.

After shooting 50 percent in the first half, Eastern tailed off in the second half, and hit only 10-of-30 shots for a 33 percent average.

"In the first half, the shots were dropping," Panther sophomore guard Kyle Hill said. "But in the second half we got kind of stagnant on offense and we took some quick shots."

Samuels agreed with Hill, as he also disapproved of the Panther shot selection in the second half.

"We have to work hard on not getting impatient; a shot clock violation has never hurt us," Samuels said. "More often than not, the more patient you are, the more likely the defense will make a mistake with the clock running down."

Another chapter in the ongoing Eastern story is opponents' free throw shooting. Lead by Kahn Cotton's 10-for-10 performance, the Indians were 25-of-29 from the charity stripe.

"We shot the ball well, and we had to," Indian head coach Gary Garner said. "We have Kahn and Cory (Johnson), who are first and second in the conference, so we try to keep the ball in their hands."

Samuels did add an interesting twist to the Eastern story when he was called for a technical foul with three minutes remaining in the game.

"I thought the ref missed one and I was voicing my opinion," he said.

Poor rebounding proves costly

SEMO's Eley shows everybody how it's done

David Pump

Rebounding is the most overlooked reason for winning basketball games, but Saturday night it was the main reason for Eastern's 81-70 loss to Southeast Missouri in Lantz Gym.

"I didn't think that they beat us with their offense," Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said. "(Sixteen) offensive rebounds, we can't give up that many."

Eastern (10-10, 5-5) was out-rebounded 43-23, with SEMO capitalizing on the Panthers' poor second-half shooting, collecting 27 defensive rebounds.

"We missed shots and that gave them a chance to rebound," Panther junior John Smith said. "They got a few offensive rebounds, and we would stand around and watch."

Smith led the Panthers with six

The Indians (12-6, 9-1) were led in rebounding by Eley, who grabbed a game-high 14, while Johnson added seven more.

"I try to pride myself in my defense and rebounding," Eley said.

"Scoring really isn't that important to me."

Hey, how about McDuffie's 'Master Plan?'

There has been a lot of talk about the Campus Master Plan – a major construction project spanning 15-plus years, costing hundreds of thousands of dollars and reshaping the university as we know it.

The plan calls for Seventh Street to be permanently closed, new parking spaces will be added, buildings will be moved, others will be torn down and some new ones will be built.

The athletic department will not be left out either. The early draft of the plan calls for some new lighted softball fields, running paths and a four-hole golf course, just to name a few.

However, unless students intend on making a career out of college, nobody will ever see any of these changes.

Few people know of another plan already in place. Athletic Director Rich McDuffie created it – by himself – unlike the Campus Master Plan, which was born with the help of a consulting firm that carries a hefty six-figure price tag.

He didn't waste any time doing it either. McDuffie is in his second full year at Eastern. The plan is in its first.

Exactly what is this thing McDuffie calls his four-year plan? The underlying principle of the plan is that it will potentially revolutionize Eastern athletics. And unlike the Campus Master Plan, this is one where many students will actually begin to see a difference before they leave.

"Our objective is after four years to get every sport to be competitive," McDuffie said. "When I came in here, people asked me in the interview process what I would do when I came in here and I discussed with the coaches what their needs were and that's where I developed a four-year plan.

"It's been very good to us," he said. "It has been able to tell us where our deficiencies are."

Almost immediately after McDuffie came here, he identified fund-raising as a problem. In the last 12 months, the athletic department has raised $670,000, which is being used to pay for the renovations at O'Brien Stadium. So far, the minimum donation asked for has been $10,000 – the athletic department hasn't even started hitting people up for the smaller amounts of money. Because of that, McDuffie anticipates raising around another $200,000.

It appears the fund-raising portion of it is under control.

How about being competitive in every sport?

"We're not where we need to be at," McDuffie said. "Any way you look at it, scholarship money attracts athletes."

Next year's budget has every sport getting an increase in scholarship dollars. While many of the increases are simply a cost of living adjustment, there are many sports benefiting. For example, men's golf only had $5,296 for scholarships this year. Next season that jumps up to $23,486.

"My experience is it's not good to dump a whole lot of money on a sport at one time ... but they were just that far behind," McDuffie said.

A true understatement. Scholarships are measured as equivalent awards, and the eight other Ohio Valley Conference men's teams had an average of 3.73 during the 1997-98 school year – Eastern's number was a pathetic 0.44, basically making it a non-scholarship sport.

Women's golf was also last among the OVC schools and also got a sizable increase
